

GENERATING AN EXECUTABLE FILE

ABSTRACT

A method of generating an executable file includes subdividing a target name into portions at one or more predetermined points. The method also includes saving at least one portion as a list variable. The method may also include determining if the target name can be further subdivided at one or more delimiters.

100052600 - Cleengen